A Brief Report
On
One Day Online Workshop
“Environmental Sustainability”

Introduction

Environmental sustainability is defined as responsible interaction with the environment to avoid depletion or degradation of natural resources and allow for long-term environmental quality. The practice of environmental sustainability helps to ensure that the needs of today's population are met without jeopardizing the ability of future generations to meet their needs.

When we look at the natural environment, we see that it has a rather remarkable ability to rejuvenate itself and sustain its viability. For example, when a tree falls, it decomposes, adding nutrients to the soil. These nutrients help sustain suitable conditions so future saplings can grow.

When nature is left alone, it has a tremendous ability to care for itself. However, when man enters the picture and uses many of the natural resources provided by the environment, things change. Human actions can deplete natural resources, and without the application of environmental sustainability methods, long-term viability can be compromised.

Objectives

To conserve and management of natural resources.

To aware students about importance of Environment and need of its protection.

To improve Biodiversity of local area by Plantation.

To manage Solid waste by reduce, reuse and recycle method.

To aware students about importance of Organic farming.

Importance of medicinal plants and need of their conservation.

Introduction:

Forests have an essential role in the maintenance of biodiversity as a gene pool for food and medicinal crops. With climate change exacerbating the risks to food systems, the role of forests in capturing and storing carbon and mitigating climate change is paramount. It is not only the trees that make a forest, but the many different species of plants and animals that reside in the soil, understory and canopy. Estimates of the total number of species on Earth range from 3 million to 100 million.

Since 1990, an estimated 420 million hectares of forest has been lost through deforestation, but the rate of deforestation has decreased substantially since 1990–2000. During 2015–2020, the rate of deforestation was estimated at 10 million hectares per year, down from 16 million hectares per year in the 1990s. (Source; FAO 2020).

Drivers of deforestation in primary forests are context specific but include unsustainable industrial timber extraction, agricultural expansion and fires which are often associated with infrastructure and logging-site development.

There is a huge need of conservation of forest so that the overall diversity of organisms will be conserved on earth.

Objectives:

- To aware students about conservation of forest and Wildlife.
- To avoid deforestation.
- To encourage and motivate students for afforestation & Protection of wildlife.
- To know students about methods of forest conservation.
- To know Ecofriendly practices.
- To know different laws and government regulations about forest and conservation of wildlife.
- To Achieve Goal of Sustainable development.

28th March – 2023

Introduction:

Research and development (R&D) include activities that companies undertake to innovate and introduce new products and services. It is often the first stage in the development process. The goal is typically to take new products and services to market and add to the company's bottom line. R&D represents the activities companies undertake to innovate and introduce new products and services or to improve their existing offerings. R&D allows a company to stay ahead of its competition. Companies in different sectors and industries conduct R&D-pharmaceuticals, semiconductors, and technology companies generally spend the most.

The main objective of workshop is to give the knowledge about the research and publication to the participants. So that output of workshop is to inspire participant and understand the importance of research and publish research paper in reputed international journals. Such as springer, Elsevier and taylor and francis, etc.

There were inputs from key speakers who provided insights into the aspects responsible for developing and enhancing quality research in education. The workshop was a key activity for the college that aims to empower learning, develops skills and support opportunities for all within the society. Feedback from the workshop was very positive, participants saw great value in working with updated innovative scholars from various colleges, the opportunity to network and to learn from one another and the chance to explore ideas. Introduction:

In India, in terms of area under cultivation, citrus is the third largest fruit crop after Banana and Mango. The average yield of citrus fruits in India is alarmingly low (8.8 t/ha) compared to other developed countries like Indonesia, Turkey, Brazil and USA (22-35 t/ha). Among mandarins, Nagpur mandarin (Central India), Kinnow mandarin (North–West India), Coorg mandarin (South India) and Khasi mandarin (North-East India) are the commercial cultivars of India. Whereas, Mosambi in Maharashtra is the sweet orange cultivars traditionally grown.

In Washim District of Maharashtra there are many orange producing farmers who have many problems in their mind regarding management and production of orange so as per need of local farmers the workshop is arranged in collaboration with esteemed institutes.

Objectives:

1. To increase more orange production.
2. Disease management ideas to farmers.
3. To manage flower blooms in adverse climatic conditions.
4. To get know the modern technique for plantation of orange.
5. To get increase the orange production area in Washim District.
6. To create awareness in Farmers for creating own orange plantlets at own home.
7. To make farmers financially stronger by increasing fruit yield.
8. To know the necessary soil & weather for orange yield.

Introduction:

What is a Nursery?

A place where plants are grown commercially, either for sale direct to the public or to other retailers.

OR; An area where we grow and nurse young progeny (an offspring of a person, animal, or plant) of plants is called Nursery.

A plant nursery is a place where plants are propagated, grown, and sold for gardening or landscaping purposes. Nurseries may specialize in a particular type of plant, such as annuals, perennials, herbs, vegetables, fruit trees, or shrubs, or they may offer a wide variety of plants for sale.

Purpose of Nursery: The primary purpose of a plant nursery is to propagate and grow plants for sale to the public. Nurseries may specialize in a particular type of plant, such as annuals, perennials, herbs, vegetables, fruit trees, or shrubs, or they may offer a wide variety of plants for sale. The plants grown in a nursery are often used for home gardens, public parks, and landscaping projects.

- Nurseries are raised to get plants of the right size at the right time.
- Nurseries are raised to get such plants which are good in health.
- Nurseries are raised to get plants of the desired spp.

Importance of Nursery:

Plant nurseries play an important role in the horticultural/forestry industry and in the development of gardens and landscapes. They provide a reliable source for a wide variety of plants, and many people rely on them for the plants they need to beautify their homes and gardens.

Nurseries also help to preserve and protect rare and endangered plant species by propagating and growing them in a controlled environment. In addition, they can help to educate the public about the importance of plants and the role they play in the environment. Finally, plant nurseries provide employment and contribute to the economy by selling plants and gardening supplies to the public.

Establishment of nurseries is important for the following reasons:

- Production of proposed size and age of seedlings.
- Production of the desired number of seedlings.
- Production of healthy plants of the desired spp.
- Production of plants of superior quality.
- Production of desired plants at the right time.
- Production of seedlings at a cheaper cost.

“How to write quality research paper”

17th April – 2025

Introduction:

Writing a quality research paper requires a structured approach, critical thinking, and clear communication. The first step is selecting a relevant and original topic that contributes to existing knowledge. Conduct a thorough literature review to identify gaps and frame your research question.

A well-organized paper follows a standard structure: title, abstract, introduction, literature review, methodology, results, discussion, conclusion, and references. The introduction should present the research problem, objectives, and significance. The methodology section must detail the research design, data collection, and analysis techniques for reproducibility.

Clarity and coherence are essential—use formal academic language, avoid jargon, and maintain logical flow. Proper citations and references (APA, MLA, or other formats) ensure credibility and avoid plagiarism.

Revising and proofreading are crucial. Seek feedback from peers or mentors to refine arguments and eliminate errors. A strong discussion interprets findings, acknowledges limitations, and suggests future research directions.

Finally, ensure originality by using plagiarism-check tools and adhering to ethical guidelines. A high-quality research paper demonstrates rigor, contributes valuable insights, and engages the academic community effectively. By following these steps, researchers can produce impactful and credible work.

While living in 21st century we are witnessing tremendous changes in environment as well as people's way of living. Throughout our country we practice generating print bill of various services. Electricity is consumed in every household of India. Electric bills are generated for twelve months every year. This practice is taking a toll on nature. It would be good practice to switch to e bill rather than print copy.

People will be playing holi with water, gulal, and synthetic colors which are easily available in the market. But we never ever thought about how harmful these synthetic colors for our skin are? The use of such colors has proved to be harsh on the skin, resulting in rashes, cuts, allergies even skin cancer too. So Extension Committee and Department of Zoology initiated a very effective step toward the awareness of harmful impact of synthetic holi colors to the human beings & environment too and how to get employment by making organic holi colors from the natural resources available near us and in moms kitchen. The workshop facilitated in two sessions i.e. First session imparts the resource person's lecture on side effects of synthetic holi colors on humans and environment and requirement of natural resources for the preparation of organic colors and how to generate empowerment from it by awaking our stakeholders for upcoming threats in our environment like climate changes and empowerment challenges in the society. The overall talk and interactions were beneficial for students and our stakeholders and were benefited through rethinking about our environmental sustainability and employment and job options in this field. The second session of this event completed through the preparation of organic holi colors with the things available in everyone's house like the cornstarch, rice flour, spinach, beetroot, dried palash flowers, rose flower, hibiscus flower, marigold flowers, turmeric, chandan powder, ashtagandha and rose water.

AIMS AND OBJECTIVES:

The key aim of this workshop is, to aware our students about the harmful impact of synthetic colors to the human beings and environment too. Also, to impart knowledge about the technical know-how of preparing these organic holi colors and creating awareness about eco-friendly celebration of holi. Workshop on Research Methodology for Space Science & Quiz Competition

Organized by the Department of Physics, M.S.P. Arts, Science & K.P.T. Commerce College, Manora, Dist.-Washim

Date: 24 August 2024

Occasion: National Space Day (24 August 2024)

Introduction

In commemoration of National Space Day, observed annually on 23 August, the Department of Physics at M.S.P. Arts, Science & K.P.T. Commerce College, Manora, organized a highly engaging and competitive Space Science Quiz on 24 August 2024. The event aimed to ignite students' curiosity about space exploration, astronomy, and the latest scientific advances in space technology. The initiative was designed not only to promote academic excellence but also to create awareness about the growing significance of space science in modern education.

Event Organization:

The quiz competition was conducted under the esteemed guidance of the following faculty members:

- Convener: Dr. N. S. Thakare (Principal, M.S.P. Arts, Science & K.P.T. Commerce College, Manora)
- Co-Convener: Dr. K. A. Koparkar (Head, Department of Physics)
- Coordinator: Mr. N. B. Bhagat (Assistant Professor, Department of Physics)

Their collective efforts ensured a well-organized and structured event that drew enthusiastic participation from students across various streams.

Participation and Grouping

A total of 100 students participated in the quiz, divided into 10 groups of 3 members each. The groups were strategically balanced to ensure a fair competition, with each team featuring students with varied academic strengths and interests in physics, astronomy, and space science. This arrangement promoted both collaboration and a healthy sense of competition among participants. The teams were given ample time to prepare for the event, with the subject focus primarily revolving around space science, including historical space missions, astronomers, scientific discoveries, and technological advancements in space exploration.

Some Glimpse of Event (Quiz Competition)

Quiz Structure and Rounds

The competition was structured into three main rounds, each designed to challenge the participants' depth of knowledge and quick thinking on space-related topics:

Round 1: Question Paper Round:

In this round, each group was handed a question paper containing 20 multiple-choice questions (MCQs). The questions ranged from basic space science facts to more challenging concepts, including:

- Milestones in space exploration (e.g., first moon landing, Mars rovers)
- Understanding the solar system, galaxies, and black holes
- Notable spacecraft and their missions
- Recent developments by organizations like NASA, ISRO, and SpaceX.

Groups were given 20 minutes to complete the paper. This round tested their general knowledge and understanding of fundamental concepts in space science.

Round 2: Identify the Scientist:

In this visually stimulating round, participants were shown images of prominent scientists and space pioneers such as Galileo Galilei, Albert Einstein, Stephen Hawking, and Dr. A.P.J. Abdul Kalam, along with brief clues about their contributions. Each group had to identify the scientist based on these clues within 15 seconds. Correct answers earned points, while incorrect responses carried no penalty. This round tested the students' ability to recall significant figures in the history of space and science.

Round 3: True or False:

The final round was a rapid-fire "True or False" session where groups were presented with 10 space-related statements, and they had to quickly determine whether the statements were true or false. This round emphasized not only factual knowledge but also the participants' ability to think on their feet. Statements ranged from common misconceptions about space to scientific facts such as:

- "Venus is the hottest planet in the solar system." (True)
- "Humans can breathe on Mars without any assistance." (False)

Each correct answer earned the group points, and this round was crucial in determining the final standings.

Results and Prize Distribution

The competition was tight, with several groups performing exceptionally well. However, after tallying the scores from all three rounds, the following teams emerged victorious:
